

Internet Law 2005
Law in Internet Time

Wendy Seltzer, Visiting Professor
email: wendy.seltzer@brooklaw.edu

Hobbes' Internet Timeline Copyright ©2005 Robert H Zakon
http://www.zakon.sagepub.com/internet/timeline/

Internet Law 2005 - Module Review

Internet Law 2005

Brooklyn Law School

Professor Wendy Seltzer, email wendy.seltzer@brooklaw.edu
 Visiting Assistant Professor of Law, Brooklyn Law School
 Fellow, Berkman Center for Internet & Society at Harvard Law School

Office: 250 Jordanron, Rm. 701
 Office hours: Wed 5-7 p.m. and Thurs 2-4 p.m. Telephone: (718) 780-7961
 Feel free to call or email me at any (reasonable) time.

Class: Tuesday evening, 6:00-7:55 p.m.
 Website: <http://wendy.seltzer.org/brooklaw/>

Welcome to Internet Law

The expansion of Internet use brings with it a host of new legal challenges. The globally connected information network at once opens opportunities for communication and commerce and threatens existing practices. As lawyers, we are often asked to mediate these encounters between old and new, to apply 'old' rules to new activities and to adapt those rules to the new environment of cyberspace.

This course will dig for core principles that will survive the rush of 'Internet time,' as we survey some of the current debates raging over law online: fleshing out regulation of e-commerce, freedom of speech and its interfaces with anonymity, privacy, and defamation; protection of intellectual property rights; security and government enforcement; and more. We will consider both law and policy; the 'is' and the 'ought' of cyberspace. As the field develops, persuasive arguments can make yesterday's 'ought' into tomorrow's 'is.'